PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Spring has sprung! Oops, it just snowed last night! Such is life in Ohio.

I personally want to thank all of you that have taken the time and sent well wishes for my recovery from this wicked Covid virus. It's rough, and recovery takes a long time. I'm still on oxygen, but I can make short trips to the barns and check on my chickens. It makes me feel revived to see how the young birds have matured. Many thanks to Matt Lhamon, my son Andy, and Mike Sayre for caring for the birds while I was out of commission. I really owe you guys!

Reports are the shows are bringing in some good numbers. My buddy Larry Lawrence held the White River Show in Spencer, Indiana and had a very well attended show. The last report I got from the Dayton Fancy Feather Show is a very well represented showing for the APA Semi Annual. Best of luck to all. I'm planning to attend the Saulk Trail Show on Memorial weekend in Hillsdale, Michigan. I'm keeping my fingers crossed!!

As clubs across the country deal with closures and cancellations, more of them are looking towards a Fall show. Greg English reported that Delmarva is scheduling a Fall show! We could have a very busy Fall!

Congratulations to the Pacific Poultry Breeders for a wonderful 2021 Plymouth Rock National. And thanks to Dale, Bruce, the Sallees and all involved!

How many of you would support a PRFC Yearbook with an ad or donation? It has been 10 years since our last one. It is an excellent chance to put our birds in front of hundreds of potential breeders. Please send you thoughts to Jill so we can get a feel for this project.

I'll close for now, and please go get the vaccination! Keep those Rocks Rollin!!
Kraig Shafer

VICE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Spring greetings!

I sure am glad that COVID 19 has allowed us to have poultry shows again this year!! It has been so good to be able to see friends at some of the shows this spring!

Looking forward to the future in 2021 the Regional meets will be in the Central and Eastern time zones. So get please your bids submitted to me at Weerdianne@gmail.com for these Regional meets so they can be chosen and get advertised.

It's nice that we rotate the PRFC National meet to different regions of the country. The 2021 National gave a chance for those in the California and the Western part of the United States to show at the National meet. Thank you to Gail Hartley for embroidering the towels with the club logo as one of the prizes for the 2021 National meet. Royal blue towels were for Champion Plymouth Rocks and yellow gold towels were given for Reserve Champions. Thank you to Jill Burks for getting the towels shipped to California. Congratulations to the winners!

Looking forward to the National 2022 meet which will be in the Central time zone.

Thank you to Kraig Shafer for being a super great PRFC President and Jill Burks for the outstanding job as secretary-treasurer! Thank you also to the district directors and all the members for making everything happen in their districts for the PRFC!

Please let me know if you have any questions, suggestions, or concerns regarding the PRFC. We are a super club and appreciate everyone working together to make the PRFC fantastic!

Stay safe and healthy! God bless you and the USA!
Dianne Weer

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Greetings from Upstate New York,

The 2021 show season is underway and meet reports are starting to come in. You can view the current exhibitor points figures on our website at plymouthrockfanciersclub.com. If you haven't already, please make sure to send in your annual membership dues to have your show wins count towards our exhibitor points contest. Special thanks to all those who are filling out and submitting the reports to make sure your wins are recorded!

Rock Breeders in the Central Zone: There's still time to get your shows to bid on the 2022 Plymouth Rock National. Bid sheets are available on the website. We will vote on the location in our Fall newsletter.

2022 PRFC Yearbook: The club traditionally publishes a yearbook every 10 years and we will need new breed and variety-related articles for this project. Articles can be on any Rock topic – history, breeding, conditioning, color, etc. If we can line up enough material and ad interest this year, we will aim to produce a Yearbook for Spring 2022. If you are interested in contributing an article or advertising, please let me know.

Poultry Census: The Livestock Conservancy is currently holding their 2021 poultry census to help understand how poultry populations are faring in North America and guide future conservation efforts. Get your Rocks counted! More info and the quick online survey can be found at: <http://bit.ly/2021PoultryCensus>

Like many others, I'm wrapping up hatching season here and looking forward to seeing old and new poultry friends at the fall shows. Stay well,
Jill Burks

DISTRICT 1 REPORT

Hello from New England,

Here we are a year later, with no shows in District 1 in 2020. The New England Bantam Club and Vermont shows are out for the spring, however Central Maine is hoping to go at the end of May. Stay tuned.

I just got pens set up to hatch a few as my showing days are getting to be less. Traveling is getting to be more difficult. Matt Martin is expecting his first hatch in mid-April. Don Anderson in Mass now has Columbians and plans on showing. In Vermont, we have a couple of juniors with Buffs and Barreds. Hope to see them at some shows this year.

Here in New Hampshire the Fish and Game Department predicts another drought this year. My hay crop was down 40% last year. Ag info reports the same, as we had very little snow and so far spring has given us no rain to speak of.

Wishing you all the best in hatching and in good health.

Sincerely,
Dean Clark

DISTRICT 2 REPORT

Hello from District 2,

I hope everyone is doing well and keeping safe thru these trying times. I am writing this Easter weekend and the weather is getting really nice and the flowers are in bloom. The weather wasn't real cold this past winter, we never know we are kinda on the border it can go either way. We have had a lot of rain though, the farmers are having a battle getting into their fields, they are behind in spring planting. My daughter and son in law are in the process of building a new house near us and they have been held up getting the lot finished cleared. My two young grandsons are excited about living near us and living out in the country. Of course I am hoping for future help taking care of the chickens, they like coming out and helping feed them and especially like the baby chicks.

A lot of shows have canceled their Spring Shows do to the uncertainty of Covid. Our show here in Delaware was scheduled for April 4-5 21 but we have decided to have a fall show, we did not want to go another year without a show. There will be several shows available to go to this fall show season. I don't like not having as many shows to attend to but it is giving me more time to raise and care for the chicks.

I have listed the shows that I am aware of below, if you have any changes to my list please let me know. I can be reached at 302-519-8711 or email

On a final note please keep President Kraig Schafer in your prayers as I just found out last week that he has been in the hospital. I hope he is back at it soon as I know he misses being out with his chickens. I hope everyone has a safe and successful hatching season.

God Bless,
Greg English

DISTRICT 4 REPORT

Hello from east central Ohio.

Hope everyone's hatching is going good. Things here are moving along except L.F. Barreds. Got started on them a bit later than I wanted but they'll get there.

Hopefully this Covid crap will die down and we can get things back close to normal. Speaking of Covid, Kraig Shafer is home from the hospital so let's all wish him well.

We have the White River Show coming up quickly on April 10th in Spencer, IN. and the DFFC Show on April 24th & 25th. The Green River show in KY is canceled for 2021.

May: Western Reserve Show on May 15th in Jefferson, OH. Saulk Trail Show on May 29th & 30th in Hillsdale, MI. I don't have a date or conformation of the Feathered Friends Show in Columbus, IN.

June: Coulee Region Show June 5th in Galesville, WI. Buckeye Fancy Feather Club show on June 12th in Canfield, OH.

Hope everyone can make as many shows as possible,
Bert Jarvis

DISTRICT 6 REPORT

Hello from District 6 Eastern Iowa,

As you may have heard, I am the new District 6 director! Last September at the Spencer, Indiana show Kraig and Bert asked if I'd be interested in joining the Rock club and being a director, At first I was hesitant to say yes to the director position, but my good friends assured me I'd do a fine job and figure out any kinks along the way. Everyone has been super helpful and that makes things easier. I am excited to be helping fortify growth in the Plymouth Rock breed!

Spring has arrived in the midwest and after a normal cold, long winter and a rather challenging year due to Covid-19. It's a nice change to see green grass and warmer temps. Spring also means that my favorite activity -- hatching season -- is here. Patiently waiting for fluffy chicks never gets old! As I'm writing this my incubators will shut off June 1st.

I recently attended the APA semi annual in Greenville, Ohio. Good showing of Rocks and as always a nicely run show. It's nice to talk with old friends and meet a few new ones. I hope to meet many of you at shows in the future and talk Rocks! Looking forward to seeing many top placing Rocks around the country this show year.

If I can be of any help or answer any questions feel free to contact me! 319-826-0225.

Until next time,
Grant Tenley

DISTRICT 7 REPORT

We couldn't have asked for better weather for our drive or the show in CA for the National Plymouth Rock Fancier's meet in Lodi. Snow in the hills on our travels and a little on the way home, but t-shirts, shorts, and lawn chairs out on the grass at the show. (It was great since I came home to a week of snow). It was so nice to see the shows back in action in CA after poultry and people health concerns over the last two years. We are still shut down for shows here in WA and OR.

The show was hosted by the Pacific Poultry Breeders Association and this was their 75th annual winter show, a special event in and of itself. Not only was it our National Meet but it was also the APA and ABA National Meets as well. Even with Covid restrictions in place we had great visits, some tasty food, and a pretty darn good poultry show.

and Reserve of Breed for Juniors with her Barred hens and went on to win Reserve Junior SCCL of the show.

In the Junior Show with large fowl, Jasmine Gates took BV with a Barred hen and Isaac Keese had BV/BB and Jacob Keese had RV/RB on white pullets.

In the Open Show with bantams, Pam Watson had BV on a Barred H and Jasmine Gates had RV Barred on a hen. In the Columbian variety Dart Browning took BV with a pullet and RV with a cockerel. With Silver Penciled Pam Watson had BV on a pullet and RV with a cockerel. In the Whites Bruce and Janice Sherman received BV and RV on two cockerels. Pam Watson had the Best Bantam Rock Display with Barred bantams. The Sherman's went on to receive Best and Reserve Plymouth Rock bantam with the two White cockerels and Reserve SCCL of the show.

In the large fowl, Jasmine Gates had BV on a Barred hen. With large fowl Whites Mike and Jan Geis had BV with a pullet and Isaac Keese had RV with another pullet. Isaac Keese received Reserve Large Rock with a White pullet and the Geis' received Best Large Rock and went on to win Reserve American in the show.

Thank you to the Pacific Poultry Breeders Association for hosting our show, the show management and set up crew, and of course to all of the exhibitors for participating!

BREEDING PLYMOUTH ROCK BANTAMS

By John Beauchamp

A regal or stately breed that I have had the pleasure of raising for 20 plus years. I have had the pleasure of knowing breeders such as Charles Wabeck, Shelby Harrington and Richard Hickman and learned a great deal from them. Mainly Shelby & Hickey, Mr. Wabeck had passed away on my second go round with chickens.

I have raised White Plymouth Rock bantams from egg to the show hall and yes its quite a journey. When the chick hatches I usually look for the 5 points a few days thereafter. Also, look for a nice wide skull on the chick. As the chick develops usually 6 to 8 weeks I start to notice the width of feather and making sure nice wide wing feather and that all the feathers are consecutive not having gaps, so that a split wing issue wouldn't develop.

I toe punch the webs in the chicks feet at hatching, if any issues develop I can trace it back to the parent birds and therefore not use that breeding pen for future. Usually chick starter and grower is fed. As the third set of feathers develop I mix oats into the feed mixture to whiten the feathers and also helps the bird develop better.

The birds run in pens on the ground or sand. (White sand is best.) I try to notice birds that have greater potential and pull them out and put into conditioning pens. Those birds go out on grass and shade from then til the show hall. I usually try to keep 10 to 12 pullets and same for cockerels. So when it's time to "play ball", we have a well-manned team. I usually have a first and second string. Generally I do several small hatchings during the season to keep fresh birds ready to promenade.

I enjoy the hobby, also have known gentleman such as Mr. Bob English, raised a lot of Black, Barred, and White rocks, and I can attribute my Black Rocks to his blood line. Greg, his son, still raises them to this day. Mr. Norman Ennis has taught me some about Blue Rocks, and yes I still have some. The very knowledgeable breeder, Mr. Norman Coulter, raises Columbians, so enjoyed talking to he and his wife Arlene for the first time at the Conn. Poultry Breeders many years ago in the old location. Dr. Robert Hawes another Columbian breeder I enjoy chatting with. Matt Martin and I have had some very competitive times in the show halls in the last 10 years I guess its been. You know our hobby is much like a family, the knowledge handed down from generation to generation I guess that why the Plymouth Rock has survived all these years.

I hope this lil tidbit helps someone along the way. I wear an apron to the shows that say "I love My Birds" and Yup I do!

CHARLES (CHUCK) KEENE: 1940-2020

By Kirk Keene

Many of you have probably heard that my dad, Chuck Keene, passed away on December 20th, 2020. Many of the newer members may not know who Chuck was, as we have not been active in several years. I've included a short biography of his life in the poultry fancy for those that didn't have the pleasure of meeting him.

In 1976 or 1977, he bought our first pair of White Rock bantams at the annual March swap meet of the Ill-Mo Bantam Club in Highland, IL. That pair, with the eventual addition of another female, became the origin of our strain of White Rock bantams. We began to show at local fairs and shows, and joined the Ill-Mo club shortly after. Within a few years, Chuck was elected President of Ill-Mo, and was instrumental in growing the club. Prior to that, the club did not host breed-club, APA, or ABA meets, and it was his top priority to change that narrative. After doing so, entries increased dramatically for the club. In the mid-nineties, Ill-Mo was host to the National Meet of the PRFC and the American Brahma Club National.

In the early 2000's, Chuck took over as Secretary of the PRFC and held the position for several years. At the time, we were also showing our birds across the country, and he always set up a booth for the PRFC wherever we may be that particular weekend. A few that I can remember were the PRFC Nationals in Lake City, FL, Hutchinson, MN, the Ohio National in Columbus, and Richmond, VA. He was a great people-person, and thoroughly enjoyed the friendships he made at the shows across the country. He also spent a significant amount of time at the Illinois State Fair every year. He and Bud Hudson would spend hours talking Rocks at the fair, and they both really enjoyed each other's company. One of his favorite shows was the old Rock & Red show, held in Nashville, IN. He was also instrumental in helping the Heartland Classic show come to fruition.

Chuck's dedication and attention to detail helped propel the PRFC to one of the largest and most financially-stable breed clubs for many years. This was evident from the large number of Rock large fowl and bantams exhibited during that period, and the number of members belonging to the organization. He was proud of the club, proud of our birds, and he loved his friends in the fancy. We miss him, but I smile thinking about all the miles we traveled and friendships we made. I'm honored to have been able to share this great man with you, and I know he'll be remembered fondly by all who had the pleasure of meeting him.

MEET THE BREEDER: GRANT TENLEY

Q: How did you develop an interest in the hobby?

I grew up on a farm in Stanwood, Iowa. In 2008 my father took me to the Eastern Iowa Poultry Association show and I've been hooked on purebred exhibition poultry ever since.

Q: Where did you get your start in Plymouth Rocks?

I got started in Plymouth Rocks as a kid. We always had about 100 White Rocks hatchery stock and a few Barred Rock for eggs and meat. I got my first Columbian Rock bantams from David Smith of Frytown, Iowa, in 2010-2011 to show in 4H.

Q: Who influenced or mentored you when you first started?

I've had many mentors thru poultry. David Smith and Glenn Drowns of Sandhill Preservation Center, among others, started teaching me about poultry and I keep learning new things everyday.

Q: What varieties do you raise?

I raise Barred, Columbian, and White Rocks in large fowl and Columbian Rocks in bantams

Q: What do you enjoy most about breeding and showing your Rocks?

I really enjoy breeding and showing poultry especially Plymouth Rocks! When I think of chickens the first thing I think of are White and Barred Rocks. The gold standard of dual purpose birds.

Q: What faults do you see in the showroom that bother you when showing?

Lots of big, knock kneed, droopy tail birds with too much fluff and cushion seem to be winning and that bugs me, but I think a poultry man or woman should study their standard and raise them Rocks how they like them!

Q: Tell us a little about your life outside the hobby.

I'm 21. I was raised on a farm 45 minutes east of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Growing up on a dairy, beef, swine, sheep, horse and poultry farm we were heavily involved in 4H, and I wrestled and played football in high school, Columbian Rocks are my favorite chickens. I also breed and raise Royal Palm and Bourbon Red turkeys; White Embden geese; guinea fowl; New Hampshires; White, Dark Brown, and Black Tailed Red Leghorns; Buff Catalanas; and White, Black, and Partridge Cochins. Poultry shows and swap meets take up most of my time, as well as collecting and selling antiques. I'm a full time commercial plumber in Cedar Rapids to afford my hobbies. Recently I've been judging county fairs and one day will most likely be applying for an APA ABA judging license.

If you are interested in participating in a Breeder Profile, please email plymouthrockfancierclub@gmail.com. All members including Juniors are welcome!

IN THE NEWS: ROBERT HAWES

Robert Hawes was featured in the March 16 issue of the Bangor Daily News in an article entitled "These chicken lovers raise show birds with beauty in mind." Thank you for promoting the hobby and Plymouth Rocks, Bob!

CAN BIRDS PREDICT THE WEATHER?

By Norman Coulter

Years ago, people depended on weather sayings to predict the weather. I have gathered a collection of sayings over the years but I found it particularly interesting to find a collection of weather predictions having to do with poultry in the 2021 Farmer's Almanac. I thought readers would be interested in this collection.

Around the farm, roosters and hens give clues about the weather:

- If the rooster crows at night, there will be rain by morning. People have observed that an approaching storm makes birds restless. And it is believed that when a rooster can't rest he crows more.
- Roosters are said to clap their wings in an unusual manner, and hens rub in the dust and seem very uneasy when rain is coming.
- During rain, if chickens pay no attention to it, you may expect a continued rain; if they run to shelter, it won't last long. (You would think the opposite is true!)

- The severity of winter is determined by how far down the feathers have grown on partridge's legs.
- When fowl collect and pick or straighten their feathers, expect a change of weather.
